

About Sudhanshu Sharma:

Real music happens when the soul sings and the soul listens. Sudhanshu sings to engage his own mind and soul, not to entertain people because he strongly believes that entertaining means titillating the ears of listeners for momentary pleasure, rather than taking them along on a journey into the heart and soul of music.

Born into a family of music lovers and enthusiasts, Sudhanshu Sharma was initiated into music when he was just eleven years old and possesses the natural ability to portray the most difficult of musical phrases easily through his voice.

A Gold-medalist in Post-graduation in Music from University of Delhi, Sudhanshu was initiated into music by Guru Shri Lakheshwar Choudhary from Assam. Later on, he moved to New Delhi to train under Pandit Baldev Raj Verma, the prime disciple of Pandit Amarnath and one of the torch-bearers of the Indore style of singing popularized by the legendary Ustad Amir Khan Saheb.

An approved artist of All India Radio, New Delhi, Sudhanshu is a rising musician and Vocal Teacher who has conducted many performances and workshops across the country and beyond. He toured extensively in the Middle East, Europe, Indonesia, and Australia, and has upcoming invitations to perform in the USA and Japan.

A recipient of the prestigious Tushar Pandit Memorial Gold Medal and Smt. V. Bani Bai Ram Memorial Medal in Music, he is also an internationally respected Teacher/Mentor with students all across the globe. He hosts many musical retreats, Lecture-demonstrations and music talks.

He strongly believes that art should serve a bigger purpose by bringing hearts together and fostering better human relationships full of peace and love – both external and internal.
